AMPUTEE REHABILITATION SCIENTIST

Reports to: Senior Scientists  Status: Full-time, 3-6 year contract
Posting: 11 January 2018  Closing: 09 March 2018

Qualifications
- PhD or equivalent in a rehabilitation-related discipline with a strong scholarly research track record
- Eligible for an appointment at the lecturer or assistant professor level at an accredited university
- Completion of a Post-Doctoral Fellowship in rehabilitation sciences preferred
- Evidence of effectively planning, managing and completing research projects
- Demonstrated ability to generate external research funding
- Strong communication, interpersonal and organization skills
- Demonstrated ability to publish research findings in peer-reviewed medical journals
- Demonstrated ability to present research findings at local, provincial, national and international level scientific conferences

Accountabilities
- Under the direction of two Senior Scientists, lead and or assist with the implementation of research and evaluation activities related to Amputee Rehabilitation
- A primary focus on independent research activities, peer-reviewed research publications in scientific journals, and peer-reviewed grants
- Engaging in a productive, independent program of research characterized by extramural funding, publication in peer review journals, training of students, and invitations to local/national/international meetings
- Directs the research activity of trainees, is fiscally responsible for the management of grants and other funding to support his/her research activities and the support staff on his/her team
- Responsible for ensuring that members of his/her team receive orientation, as appropriate with respect to position responsibilities
- Participates actively in the collective research activities (e.g., seminar series, protocol review, committees, advising Scientists etc.) as requested

Other
- Ensures that they and their research personnel adhere to WPHC policies and Joint Research Ethics Board policies
- Be aware of conditions and measures that may affect the safety of patients, residents, students, employees, volunteers, physicians and visitors including:
  - Compliance with the safety standards of the hospital and applicable legislation
  - Identification and prevention of safety issues and problems taking corrective action, where possible
  - Attendance at safety meetings/training/updates in accordance with the Centre’s standards
- Ability to work in a manner that exemplifies the core values of West Park: Excellence, Respect, Trust, Collaboration and Accountability
- Evidence of good performance history and attendance record

Application Method: Please submit a cover letter and CV to: Tim Pauley, Manager, Research & Evaluation tim.pauley@westpark.org, 416-243-3600 x2628